ET TU BRUTE.

It must be most unpleasant for Robert La Follette to peruse the editorial columns of the Milwaukee Free Press these morning hours created for his personal benefit, to exploit his ideas, to promulgate his doctrines of high taxes and self-advancement, the Free Press has been a most faithful mouthpiece of the "Little Boss" in all the years of its existence. But like the serpent warmed in the bosom of the humanitarians, it turns at last and strikes with a bitter venom.

Adherents of La Follette have come and gone. Have fallen by the wayside, been relegated to the scrap heap when they finished his work, and new adherents have arisen to take their place. Now comes the Free Press, faithful almost to the last, and represents the personal abuse that the senator has instilled into the present campaign in behalf of his chosen friend, Hiram.

It has been said for even the Free Press, and this newspaper turns and says:

"The bitter, vindictive spirit which has grown upon Senator La Follette since his failure to realize his national ambitions is most clearly manifested in his increasing resort to personal vilification and abuse."

This is a noticeable first in the case of a President. Because of certain reasonable political differences that interfered with the senator's plans, he visited the chief executive with railing and indignity so that even democrats were driven to protest out of respect for the office.

"Since then, his proneness to stoop to this low form of campaigning, a somewhat expert type, has increasingly appealed to Senator La Follette. Once a master of political argument, he now finds his greatest delight in assaults upon the personality and character of his opponents, assaults in which he draws freely upon his suspicious, warped and vindictive imagination."

The best example of this new La Follette has been seen during the last presidential campaign, when the senator poured out the vials of his wrath and wrath upon Theodore Roosevelt. Not because the progressive candidate held any serious threat to the national well-being, but because of Senator La Follette's personal grudge, did the latter abuse and castigate the former president as if he were the most malignant of political pirates.

That the badger statesman still does not shrink from cheap and material form of campaigning is proved by his current attack on Emanuel Philipp. With ghoulish glee he resurrects certain ancient and long discredited charges against the republican candidate and shapes them into a current redemption upon the latter's character.

A more despicable assault could not well be imagined. With every one of these charges, so false and manufactured many years ago, some of them, indeed, in courts of law, the senator's revival at this time smells to heaven as an example of the lengths to which he will go to defeat an opponent who may lead even a man of high intelligence.

In truth this mean personal attack upon Mr. Philipp is a tribute to the strength of his cause. If an opponent of the senator La Follette is so devoid of legitimate and proper argument against the republican candidate for governor that he must revive the old-time ammunition of ten years ago, the anti-Philipp crowd must be in a pretty bad way.

As for Emanuel Philipp himself, he may well feel complimented by being named with the same kind of abuse that Senator La Follette has heaped on President Taft and Roosevelt.

THE TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE.

The Home Rule and Tax Payers' League has formally elected C. C. Whittelet and A. J. Winegar, candidates for the assembly from the first and second assembly districts of Rock County, respectively. In its endorsement it says:

"The Home Rule and Tax Payers' League has tried to find out the position of the different candidates for legislative and judicial offices on the principles adopted by the League."

"We have done this by personal interviews with candidates, wherever possible, by sending out letters, containing statements of our principles and asking for answers, and inviting comments, and also by information received from various members of the League throughout the state.

"In doing this work, the League has acted impartially, and with a desire to be fair to candidates of all parties. Its object in getting this information has been, and now is, to find out for what candidates it is, in our judgment, safe to vote, and thus inform our members."

"The people of Wisconsin demand lower taxes, greater economy in the management of public affairs, and a return to what may be called a genuine democracy. We believe we can state truthfully that regardless of party, an overwhelming majority of our people ask for these things, and do not intend to vote for any candidate who is not in sympathy with our principles."

"Our desire has been to get the most reliable information, and then, in making our report, to deal fairly with every candidate, no matter to what party he belongs. On such information, then, as we have been able to get, we desire to state to the electors that, in our judgment, they can safely vote for Mr. L. C. Whittelet for the office of assemblyman from the 1st Assembly district, in Rock County, and A. J. Winegar of Beloit, for assemblyman from the 2nd district."

The question may arise, Who are the Tax Payers' League? It is easily answered. It is a non-partisan organization of business men, professional men, farmers, tax payers of every class, in fact every man who stands for good, honest government, a reduction of taxes and an administration of the funds in the state treasury in a business-like manner. In fact the list of membership is open to every voter who believes in these doctrines.

In making their endorsement of candidates they have not been confined to any party. They have named republicans and democrats alike throughout the state after convincing themselves they would make good men for the offices they seek. The men at the head of the organization are not politicians, have not taken part in the recent political upheavals. They are even men of the progressive persuasion. It is strictly a non-partisan movement. It had its inception during the early part of the present campaign, to the demand on the part of the people for lower taxes. It awoke the old time political leaders to the demand of the taxpayers and was responsible for the platforms of both the republican and democratic state conventions.

Its endorsement comes after mature deliberation. It is not a snap judgment. The records of the men seeking office have been closely inspected. If they have served in previous legislatures their votes on matters of state importance have been investigated, and aside from that they have been closely questioned as to their stand on future legislation. Consequently the statement they favor the election of both Whittelet and Winegar should have weight with the voters of the county on Tuesday next.

PROVES ITS VALUE.

The commission form of government has proven its value to the citizens in more ways than one. The announcement of the sweeping reduction of the tax rate, to $9.88 per thousand valuation, in itself is something to be proud of, but when the facts are considered that the citizens have received more benefits in the past two years in the way of permanent improvement than in any previous period, and that they know that for every dollar expended they are receiving a dollar's worth of work, the value of the commission is appreciated. With the present state of high state taxation, the decrease in the city taxes comes as a welcome news and should be appreciated. It shows that civic affairs can be managed on the same basis as any business and successfully without the elements of guess work so common in the old method of doing business with a common council of two aldermen from each ward who looked particularly after the needs of their ward and not of the city as a whole. The commission form of government is a success and even those who were most opposed to it realize it now.

Wisconsin is certainly getting its share of political advertisement these days. With William Jennings Bryan, scion of democracy, parading the virtues of the Wilson administration and urging the election of the democratic ticket, Robert M. La Follette returning from Washington to decry his opposition of the regular republican nominee, to repudiate by word and deed his pet fallacy, the primary law, and enter into a campaign of vilification and personal abuse; and last but not least, Ultra-progressive Bull Moose Advocate Theodore Roosevelt, the original bolter of Belleville, sending a letter endorsing the very man who he derided his candidacy two years ago, makes Wisconsin the center of a lighting spot, as important in American politics as is the crossing of the Aisne in the European struggle.

It would appear that Mr. Philipp said some things down at Beloit last evening that Senator La Follette will find hard to answer. Philipp has been maligned by word of mouth and in the print to such an extent that he is now putting the shoe on the other fellow's foot, and there will have to be a lot of explaining done before the public is satisfied.

The booster run is announcing to the surrounding country that Janesville is the one location in southern Wisconsin where they should shop if they are to take advantage of the excellent stock of goods that are offered for sale.

This is housecleaning time, a period of discontent for the average man of the household and a time of work for the better half. It is going to be a long winter and everything must be spick and span.

BURY SOLDIERS WHO DIED IN PARIS HOSPITALS WITH GREAT MILITARY HONORS.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Paris, Oct. 29.—German and French soldiers who died in hospitals here are being buried with military honors. Their graves are marked in precisely the same manner in the cemeteries of Pau and Bagneux. French soldiers are buried in one section and German in another. The graves are simple. At the head of each is a black wooden cross with the soldier's name, regiment and date of death. Graves of French soldiers are covered with flowers. Visitors buy them at the entrance and throw them upon the graves of the French. Not a flower is to be seen upon those of the Germans.

OUR National Opportunity LESSONS for AMERICA from the WAR

WE ARE LEARNING TO SUPPLY HOME NEEDS.

By Robert H. Benedict.

Necessity is the mother of invention, and difficulties may turn out to be opportunities.

The European war is teaching us to do for ourselves what we have depended upon others to do for us. Enormous profits that have hitherto gone abroad will hereafter stay at home.

It took a European war to remind us that in 1913 we imported $4,000,000 worth of cotton thread, $13,000,000 worth of cotton clothing, $2,000,000 worth of buttons, $3,000,000 worth of clocks and watches, $22,000,000 in linens, $31,000,000 in lace goods, and $2,000,000 in handkerchiefs, all of which we could produce at home, and which we doubtless will produce in America in large measure hereafter.

The above article is easier for the home manufacturers to take over than some others which we shall also manage to handle. The emergency finds us quick and resourceful.

Take dyes, for example. We have shipped our coal tar products to Germany, whose chemists have turned out dyes for us. We will manage to make more of our dyes hereafter.

Our pottery has imported from China and Europe most of the clay used in making fine dishes. Now we learn that such clay can be secured in America. The war also cuts down imports of French china and gives American pottery a great opportunity.

Germany has been selling us $12,000,000 worth of potash from fertilizers every year. Nevada, New Mexico and other southwestern states will endeavor to fill this need now.

America will smelt its own tin hereafter, instead of sending its tin concentrates to England.

Medical oils, previously imported from Russia and Austria, will be developed at home.

Chemicals for engraving and photography, heretofore supplied by Germany, will in the future be largely produced by American chemists.

The imported toy business, amounting to $7,000,000 a year, will be captured by home manufacturers.

We needed a jolt to wake us to our opportunities.

KAREL IS SCHEDULED TO TALK AT BELOIT

Democratic Candidate Will Arrive in Janesville Saturday Morning—To Visit Clinton.

Judge John C. Karel, Democratic Candidate for governor, will give his Rock County campaign speech in Beloit on Saturday. He will also stop for a short talk in Clinton.

Judge Karel will arrive in Janesville from Milwaukee at 10:30 Saturday morning and after a visit with friends here will be taken by automobile to Clinton where he will speak at 11:30. It is expected that a great number of farmers will drive in to hear the candidate. After the Clinton meeting Judge Karel and party will proceed overland to Beloit for dinner at the Hotel Hilton with some of the Beloit democrats and at two o'clock will give his campaign talk. If the weather is pleasant the address will be given on the Emerson corner in order to reach the hundreds of shop men who are off Saturday afternoon.

It is expected that the address will be held in the Orpheum theater. It is expected that a number of Judge Karel's friends from this city will journey to Beloit on Saturday to take part in making the rally enthusiastic. The Democratic county committee requests that all who desire to meet the candidate turn out and visit him while in this city between 10:15 and 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

BUILDING WINTER QUARTERS FOR RECRUITS IN ENGLAND.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) London, Oct. 29.—Carpenters are working day and night at the army encampments for the winter quarters for the recruits of Lord Kitchener's new force.

The new huts are not warm structures, being either of wooden or corrugated iron walls with iron roofs. But their completion before winter is considered highly important to the health of the men, who are now sheltered in tents.

About 600,000 men are encamped on the Salisbury plains in the southern part of England. They are being housed at the rate of 6,000 a day. Portable huts are to be sent to the expeditionary force as soon as a fixed base is established.

SOAP ON YOUR HAIR CAUSES DANDRUFF; SCALP GETS DRY, THEN HAIR FALLS OUT

GIRLS! GET A 25 CENT BOTTLE AND TRY A "DANDERINE HAIR CLEANSER."

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanser." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

ENGLAND UNABLE TO MAKE GLASS OF WINNERS LAMP.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) London, Oct. 29.—The miners' strike, which depends on the safety and livelihood of nearly a million British miners, is exclusively a German product, and English manufacturers are unable to produce a glass which will stand the exacting test of the Home Office.

This fact, startling to mine owners and men, has come to light at a time when the newspapers and societies for capturing German trade are asserting that only cheap and trashy glassware and pottery comes from Germany.

The Home Office test of these lamp glasses is severe. A pound weight of lead is dropped from the height of four feet on each glass submitted, two out of a dozen crack or chip, the others are rejected. After undergoing this test, the glass is submitted to a heat trial. It is brought to a temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit, and then cooled in cold water.

Not only miners' glasses, but gauge glasses and test tubes for chemists have come from Germany in the past. It is doubtful whether England is able to produce this class of goods according to statements of many factors.

At least, the trade will not be built up in a short time. New equipment is required and men must be trained for the new work.

Much of Germany's glassware and pottery, such as is supplied to the more primitive corners of the world, is as the Board of Trade exhibition shows, cheap and gaudy. But this trade is nevertheless extensive and profitable and one hitherto neglected by all countries except Germany.

BUNNY AT HIS BEST

John Bunny, Lillian Walker and Wally Van take the leads in the Broadway star feature comedy, "LOVE, LUCK AND GASOLINE," an extremely exciting and amusing Vitaphone film story dealing with the adventures of Bunny, Miss Tomboy and Cutey.

The pursuit of Miss Tomboy and Cutey, who have eloped by an irate father (Bunny) and the latter's fall from grace and an aeroplane, is only one of the many things that keep the audience in roars of laughter. Miss Tomboy and Cutey, after using in their flight every vehicle ever invented from a private yacht to a flying boat, finally receive the blessing of father, whose evident desire to marry off his daughter at any cost, becomes so great that he allows Cutey to take the job which he originally intended for his friend, Van Alstyne. This thoroughly enjoyable and refreshing comedy will be the attraction at the Majestic Saturday.

HASTEN SEWER WORK ON PLEASANT STREET

CITY WORKMEN MAKE GOOD PROGRESS IN SPITE OF FREQUENT CAVE-INS.

BRIDGE NEARLY READY

Monterey Structure Which is Being Extensively Repaired, Will Be Open to Traffic in a Week.

Rapid progress is being made by city employees on the repairing of Monterey bridge and the construction of the storm sewer on Pleasant street, the work being pushed with as possible speed by the foremen in charge. On the cement sewer, the workmen had a serious reverse yesterday when a bad cave-in was threatened at the intersection of Pearl and Pleasant streets. The banks had toppled down into the twelve foot ditch it would have resulted in certain death for three diggers working in the cut at the time.

The work is protected by sheet piling which weakened and started to sag. The workmen were warned in time by the leaking of the sand beneath the sheeting and further damage was prevented by additional bracing. The ditch had been dug to the level and everything was set for the pouring of the cement for the foundation of the sewer when the dirt started. The earth at this point is clear sand, which is giving the workmen much trouble. The sand has been removed and the workmen have been completed to the south corner of Pearl street. Further work is expected to be made on the next block, to Chatham street, the workmen hoping they will not experience sanitary sewers or water pipes laid in the path of the water sewer.

At the corner of Pearl street a man-hole will be built, but it is not thought that a deep catchbasin will be necessary. As the sewer is a large diameter, the man-hole will be built at the Chatham street intersection. The new improved type of intake gutters from the curb will be used here to eliminate all trouble that has been experienced in the past. The street has been badly torn up in spots owing to the lowering of the sewer pipes under the storm sewer. The city by doing the work through their own labor accomplished a saving of no small amount, having been paid for the cheaper than having labor through the plumbers.

In about a week's time, weather being favorable, the Monterey bridge should be open to traffic for the workmen had completed planking the structure today and have laid the water-proof felt for some distance. The work of the men in laying the joists is very precarious, more so than the work of the men planking directly over the dam, a drop of some twenty feet. Yesterday one of the men engaged in fitting a joist slipped, but fortunately caught himself before he went through.

An investigation shows that the condition of Jackson street bridge at the present time is very dangerous and it is urgent need of repair. The bridge in its near future appears to be the only remedy. The structure sags badly, the underpinnings being weak. It is the plan of Councilman P. J. Goodman to recheck the bridge with planking obtained from the city and to afford a good driveway across the structure. The old joists from the Monterey bridge are so rotten that it would be unwise to use them for making repairs on the Jackson street bridge.

The cause for the clogging of the drinking fountain on South Main street, in the front of the Court House Park was discovered when the drain pipes were taken up and found entirely clogged with vegetation which, nourished by the water had grown to unbelievable size. A six inch pipe was clogged for three lengths and more of the pipe will be taken up today. The fountain was used and the water from the drinking places were exposed, and it was found small stones and fungus stopped the water from into the down drains. Larger pipes were installed with a better drop, by which the stone trouble will be eliminated, and the fountain built up. The same trouble was being experienced on the fountain at the Fourth Ward Park, which will be taken up and repaired. At the North Washington street fountain faulty cement work in the foundation caused trouble together with stone deposits not into the drains by mischievous boys. In all cases the drains underneath the fountains were solid cement foundation, which will keep the roots and vegetation from growing into the pipe joints.

Repairs are being made on North Main street, gravel being put on the street, which will be graded and leveled.

On Eastern avenue the rubble foundation road with a clay crown is proving durable and promises to be one of the best highways in the city with its attention. After the next heavy rain, the crown of the street will be torn up and rolled to a better grade to meet the water conditions, as part of the street is in a very low place.

At the Main street bill the repairs of screened gravel as a foundation with a good crown has withstood the heavy traffic successfully. A gang of city workmen are being employed in burning up the various wards. To prevent possible trouble that would be encountered in case the leaves were washed into the sewer system, gangs were detailed to scrape them from the gutters and burn them. The debris left is being hauled away. A request is made to the residents to care for the leaves as soon as possible and to burn them immediately, and what was declared to be most important, to keep them clear of the curb and gutters.

GLEASON RELEASED BY THE AUTHORITIES

Detention May Have Been Part of Plot to Get Him to Return to Chicago on Part of Wife.

This morning Chief of Police Champion notified Oliver Gleason that his nominal detention at the request of the chief of detectives of Chicago for alleged wife abandonment was over, and that if the Chicago officers wanted him they would have to come here with the warrant and make the arrest themselves. Mr. Gleason was released from Chicago, but was released by officers on his own word and not locked up. It is reported that Gleason was part of a plot by his wife who recently kidnapped their oldest child from an Evansville school and thus hoped to bring Gleason to Chicago where she could have him arraigned on some trumped up charge before a strange court away from his friends and lawyer. Gleason has been a resident of Janesville for two years and while his wife has refused to come here to live with him, he has contributed to her support until recently when he discovered facts that caused him to stop doing so. At that time he went to Chicago and took their eldest child from his wife and took her to Evansville and placed her in charge of her grandparents. The child was found her two weeks ago and took her from the school and evidently back to Chicago, hoping that Gleason would follow. His failure to do this probably led to the second arrest of Gleason to that city by the telegram of Wednesday. Just what steps he will take if any, to recover possession of his children, has not yet been decided. It is said that his wife has threatened to go at once. Papers in a divorce action have been filed by Mr. Gleason.

LA FOLLETTE SPENDS HALF HOUR IN CITY

SENATOR ARRIVES FROM MADISON AT NINE-THIRTY, STARTING TOUR FOR BLAINE.

MEETS A FEW FRIENDS

Honor of His First Speech Passed on to Beloit When Crowd Falls to Materialize at Myers Hotel.

Senator Robert M. La Follette arrived in Janesville at nine-thirty o'clock this morning from Madison and spent a half hour at the lobby of the Myers Hotel where he was greeted by a few of his personal friends. At ten o'clock he took the interurban car for Beloit, where he was scheduled to speak in the interests of the Blaine candidacy for governor. Janesville was to have had the honor of the senator's first speech in the present campaign tour of the state, but efforts to secure a crowd at the corner of Main and Milwaukee street were unavailing on such short notice, although Attorney O'Brien had spent some time last evening telephoning from Madison to the effect that the senator intended to talk here briefly this morning. The message was received by a number of Janesville men, but the turnout was insufficient to warrant an address so La Follette's initial declaration to voters regarding his position on national politics was made at Beloit at noon.

Chate With Friends. Victor P. Richardson, a personal friend of the senator, was on hand to meet him at the hotel. A dozen other men were introduced but passed on with nothing more than a word of welcome. Mr. Richardson and the senator talked for some time in the hotel lobby, where they were later joined by John L. Fisher, T. S. Nolan talked with the group for a few minutes just before the car left for Beloit. Very little was said concerning the political situation, but all were pleased to meet La Follette and note that he was recovering his old-time vigor, following his recent illness.

Very little was said concerning the political situation, but all were pleased to meet La Follette and note that he was recovering his old-time vigor, following his recent illness.

The senator told those who inquired as to his health and his looks bore out his statement, although he seemed to lack the rugged appearance which characterized him in his earlier fighting days.

Colonel Hannah, his private secretary, and Mr. O'Brien, J. L. Blaine's manager, were with La Follette this morning. Hannah spent most of the time while in Janesville at the telephone keeping long distance busy.

John L. Blaine of Boscobel, independent candidate for governor in Wisconsin, was in Janesville, making the present tour, was not here, although it had been announced that he would accompany the party. His itinerary today, however, included Port Washington, Manitowish and Sheboygan, meeting La Follette tonight at Milwaukee, where they will speak at eight-thirty.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 29.—So busy receiving messages and callers from many parts of the state that the noon hour ran by Senator La Follette at Madison today. He was in his office here yesterday afternoon, Mr. La Follette formed the principal item in his diet. Outwardly Senator La Follette seems to be in the best of health and he says he is feeling "fine."

There are six rooms in the suite comprising La Follette's offices. With the exception of the stenographer's room, everyone was occupied by callers and campaign workers who perused railroad tables and the state map diligently, preparing La Follette's itinerary.

WOMAN'S VIEW OF WAR IS EXPRESSED IN STRONG CARTOON

War from the woman's point of view is expressed in a cartoon recently printed in an issue of "The Suffragist," the official organ of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, of which Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont is one of the leaders, and which has headquarters in Washington.

Miss Nina Allender is the artist and her work, which has never before appeared in the public prints, is attracting considerable favorable attention. The cartoon, which is one of a series which she has just completed, is entitled "War—the Woman Dies a Thousand Deaths." Miss Allender is a Washington woman and has been identified with the equal suffrage work of the Congressional Union since its inception about a year ago.

BOOMER ITINERARY IS FINISHED TODAY

Bower City Boosters in South and Southeast Sections of County—Feature Thought Successful.

Tonight will close the two days' itinerary of the Janesville Retailers' Association for the great rebate suit which opens in the city Monday. It will be a gala week for trade, the whole six business days to be given over to the county customers.

The boomers and their bedecked automobiles and filled with literature descriptive of the sale, left as scheduled today on Wednesday when the air was raw and chilly. The band was along and was to make things lively at Shopiere, Clinton, Darien, Elkhorn, Fontana, Walworth, Sharon.

A telephone message to The Gazette shortly after noon today said that the only accident to hinder the morning's run was a tire blowout near Darien. Everybody, however, took it as it came and played a game of "duck on the Rock," while the occupants of the stalled car repaired the injury.

Yesterday's run was a great success. At every stop large crowds gathered to hear the music and receive the printed matter describing the week's sale and its distance covered rebate feature. It is expected that the two days' run will draw hundreds of customers to Janesville and establish the printed matter as a real trade feeling between retailer and customer.

It is hoped and planned that the people from the surrounding territory will not come only for the inducements offered during this respective sale week, but will in the future look to Janesville as their main trading point and come here when opportunity and necessity afford.

The cars in today's run and their occupants:

Car No. 1.—Amos Rehberg, Thomas G. Murphy, Joseph M. Connors, W. J. McDowell.

THE PRICE.
DID YOU ever happen to think how we pay for almost all the things we get in life in coin of liberty?
 "But if I buy a house instead of renting," says a neighbor of mine, "I shall be more tied down."
 "Yes," answers another neighbor, "but think of the comfort of owning your own place and being able to fix it up any way you want to. I tell you, putting in a house and garden, when it belongs to you, is the best fun in the world."
 "I know it," answers the first man soberly, "but—"

And in the pause that follows his broken sentence, I know he is going over in his mind the question that is as old and as new as eternity—Is this worth the price in liberty which I must pay for it?
 Civilization, with all that it means of law and order, open plumbing, moving pictures, steam heat, policemen, paved streets and public libraries, was bought with a mighty price—payment of liberty. For the freedom to dress, eat, hate, talk, love, kill in our own way has been given up bit by bit to buy civilization.
 Man, even civilized man, is born with a passionate desire for absolute freedom. He finds from the time that he is old enough "to be made to mind," that some of his freedom has been taken away from him by common consent of society, even before he was born. He resents this, and yet he goes through life trading much of what he has left him for this or that. Some of that precious little store of personal liberty he pays out for friends. If a man wants friends he must conform to society's standards of conduct and manners. That is one surrender of liberty. Moreover he must try to please these friends, must compromise between his wishes and theirs. That is another surrender.
 Next he falls in love and willingly offers a large portion of his precious possession of liberty. Probably he does not realize at the time that he is making any sacrifice. He does not realize that he is trading freedom for companionship, buying love with liberty. Nature covers his eyes with one of her most efficient blinders, purposely that he may not see. And when he does realize it, Heaven grant he may be able to approve his bargain. Despite scandals and divorce courts, I have faith to believe that most of us can.

And lastly, comes the supreme surrender. It does not seem as if those tiny little hands were big enough to steal away a man's liberty and yet they can do it better than anything else in the world. "Hostages to fortune," Lord Bacon called these tiny things of freedom, for they are impediments to great enterprises, either of virtue or mischief.
 Some things that we buy with the precious coin of our freedom are not worth the price, but to those who shrink from giving up their freedom for the real things of life, let me recall the words of Sir Galahad, "And if I lose myself, I save myself."

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Now, Pete, take this $12 over to Mr. Grant's office. How glad I am that we have this worry off our minds! I was afraid for a while that we would have to skip the $12 a month payment on the little home. We never could have made it if you children had not worked so hard to help, for it takes all the father can make to keep up the living expenses, working only half time. I have the finest children in the country," concluded Mrs. Stuart, smiling brightly, as her twelve-year-old boy waved goodbye.
 She had reason to be proud of the many little fellow. Working before and after school he had milked the cow and kept her in fresh grass by raking the clippings from the lawn. He had moved his sister had done her part by delivering milk to their customers. The mother had done plain sewing and mending for her well-to-do neighbors. All together they had kept up the payments on the little home during the dull times at the foundry.
 "Take, have you kept all your receipts from Mr. Grant?" asked Mrs. Stuart, as she handed the money to the boy. "We have not skipped any," she replied. "I have kept them all." "I will give you another try. Can you forgive me?" he asked in a voice shaken with emotion.
 "Oh, Jake, what is the matter? Are you sick?" asked his wife anxiously, laying her hand on his shoulder.
 "Yes, sick with shame and dread," he replied without looking up. "I have failed without looking up. I have failed to keep the money the children and I worked so hard to get together. That you gambled with our chance to get a home?"
 "Other fellows were making money that way," he said sullenly. "The first money you gave me four months ago I took a chance on and lost. Since then I have been trying to get it back and make the payments before you found it out."
 She turned and left the room. A fierce anger burned in her heart. The summer had been so hard on her and the children they had brought nothing to wear and had no vacation. To have all the fruits of this sacrifice gambled away was bad enough, but worse than all this was the cruel disappointment in her husband.
 As she sat with her head buried in her apron, sobbing convulsively, she felt hands laid on her shoulders.
 "Pete, I will live this down if you will give me another try. Can you forgive me?" he asked in a voice shaken with emotion.
 "Oh, Jake, what is the matter? Are you sick?" asked his wife anxiously, laying her hand on his shoulder.
 "I will bring home my order uncashed and Pete shall make all the payments after this," he said, putting his arm around her.
 "No," she replied, "you make them and bring me the receipts. I've got to know, I can trust you."

THE TABLE.
Potato Soup.—Three medium-sized potatoes, washed and peeled, sliced and put in a quart hot milk. Thicken with two level tablespoons flour and four of butter stirred to a cream; add salt, pepper and a little minced onion. Boil five minutes.
Beefsteak Rolls.—Cut round steak into pieces three by six inches. On each piece lay a thin strip of bacon. Salt and pepper. Roll up with bacon inside and the fat outside. String in the frying pan have hot bacon fat and sear the rolls over quickly. Then cover with boiling water and let boil fifteen minutes. Then cover with gravy. An onion, fried in butter, gives a delicious flavor. When rolls are done remove to platter and remove strings. Thicken gravy, first straining it, if you have browned the onion with it.
Cheese Toast.—Cut bread as for toasting. Toast one side, then butter the other side and cover with cheese cut very thin or finely; now put back in oven and brown. Simple but very tasty.

Household Hint

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been going with a boy for some time. He seems to think a great deal of me. One night coming home from church he says, "I guess we won't go next Sunday night because I have to work." I said, "All right." And he has never said anything more about me going any place with him. Do you think he is angry with me? He is still treating me as a very nice. Do you think he really cares for me? I am a "baby" and I would be nice to put in a box to take to a box supper? How can I keep my appetite each? Before eating should you spread your napkin and put your lunch on it?
DARLING DIMPLES.
 (1) Probably the boy was wise enough to see that you had been going together long enough. It is very unwise for young people to keep regular company; at the age of fifteen it is simply ridiculous. Speak pleasantly to him, and keep your lunch on it.

IN STERLING LIVES A GIRL

Who Suffered As Many Girls Do—Tells How She Found Relief.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Miss BERTHA A. FLOQUIN, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LAVISA MYRES, Box 74, Massena, N. Y.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"But if another cab comes along while you're at it you'll lose us as quick as a wink. Here's my card, in case we have to desert you in a hurry; you understand this is a matter of life and death, and I'll have no time to settle up with you. But you can call at Mr. Digby's office and he'll fix things up to your satisfaction."

The man took the card and after a glance at the name touched his hat with more noticeable respect. "All right, Mr. Law, he agreed, 'anything you say.' And forthwith got a work."

The rapidity with which he completed the change of tires proved him an excellent chauffeur, an adept at his craft; but the delay was a disaster for all that. It worked together with what Alan pardonedly described as the devil's own luck to bring the touring-car in sight at the precise moment when the chauffeur was cranking up and Alan on the point of re-entering the cab. And though they were off again before Alan could close the door, the attempt was hopeless from the start.

And yet—whether or not because Alan's distaste for interference had been too convincingly demonstrated—the touring car for the time being contented itself with trailing about fifty feet in the rear, while the taxi fled the tenement purlieu of the Hoboken waterfront and found its way into the broader streets of an unpretentious suburban quarter.

Not until they were well into the suburbs, with few dwellings near and no pedestrians to interfere, did Marrophat's purpose become apparent. Then, however—and it happened while Alan was looking back—the touring car drew in swiftly and easily and Marrophat, rising in his seat, leveled a revolver over the windshield and fired.

The crack of his weapon was practically coincident with a metallic thud beneath the rear seat of the taxicab. Not for some moments did Alan appreciate the viciousness of the scheme. Surmising that the gasoline tank had been punctured by the bullet, he was

In the flutter of an eyelash the explosion followed. Had the cab been loaded with nitroglycerin its destruction could have been no more absolute.

There was a roar, and then a heap of smoking ruins.

Without waiting to admire the spectacle, Alan caught the arm of the girl and hurried her up the street, at the same time calling to the chauffeur to follow. And chance brought them to the next corner as another cab, farewell, hove into view. Promising its driver anything he might ask, in or out of reason, Alan gave him the address, and helped the girl in.

If Marrophat pursued Alan could see no sign of him. The second car made better time than the first. Unhindered, and as far as could be determined, without being followed, it covered the brief remaining distance in a gratefully short lapse of time.

The suburb dropped behind a maze of streets where dwellings stood shoulder to shoulder and dooryards were scant. The car swept up to a corner house of modest and homely aspect. Two minutes more, and Alan was exchanging salutations with and making his bride-to-be known to Digby's good friend, the Reverend Mr. Wright.

Embarrassment worked confusion with the young man's perceptive faculties. As this moment approached when two should be made one who had gone through fire and flood, literally as well as figuratively, for each other's sake, incredulity drew a veil before his vision. He viewed the world as in a glass, darkly.

He was aware of a decently furnished minister's study; of two witnesses in the guise of unassuming womenfolk of the minister's household; of the Rev. Mr. Wright himself as a benevolent voice rolling sonorously forth from a black-clad presence; of the woman of his heart standing opposite him; of questions asked and responses made; of a ring that was magically conjured from some store apparently maintained against precisely similar emergencies; of a with a sudden outbreak of such rage as never could have been brewed in Rose's gentle nature.

"You devil!" she cried—and threw herself in front of Marrophat with a spring as lithe as that of a leopardess. "Take warning now from me: keep out of my way forever after this—or take the consequences! God knows," she panted, "why I don't kill you as you stand!"

He was in her way, between her and the open door. She gave him no chance to move aside, but seized him so fiercely by the wrists that he instinctively lifted to protect himself, and she fairly threw him half a dozen feet from her. He brought up with a crash against the wall even as the door slammed behind the girl.

When Alan, the first to recover, gained the sidewalk, she was already in the taxicab. Whatever reward she had promised the man, he whipped his machine away as if from the fear of sudden death.

And darting from the house hard on the minister's heels, Marrophat leaped into his own car and, as if he had not heard her threat or received substantial proof of her earnestness, tore off in pursuit.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

And the Rose.

Taking the dazed young man by the hand, as though he had been a child, the Reverend Mr. Wright led Alan back to his study and established him in a comfortable armchair beside his desk.

"Sit there and compose yourself, my dear young friend," he insisted in a soothing voice.

At the elbow of the Reverend Mr. Wright a telephone shrilled imperatively. With a gesture of professional patience he turned to the instrument, lifted the receiver to his ear, and spoke in musically modulated accents.

"Yes. Yes, this is Mr. Wright. Ah, yes, Mr. Digby. Not coming? But, my dear sir, Mr. Law is already here. I must tell you—"

He checked with a reproving glance for Alan, who was twitching his sleeve insistently.

"If you please," Alan begged, "let me speak to Digby at once. Forgive me—"

Reluctantly the minister surrendered the telephone.

"That you, Digby?"

"Alan! Bless my soul, what are you doing over there? Is Miss Trine with you? But how can that be possible?"

"Rose? No. What about her?" Alan demanded, stammering with anxiety.

"Why—one of my spies has just reported by telephone. He was going on duty this morning when he saw a young woman—either Rose or Judith—wearing a rough coat over boudoir dress—climb out of one of the basement windows of Trine's house. She was apparently in great distress of mind and anxious to escape without being seen from the house; but before my man—whose post of observation is in the third story of one of the houses opposite—could get to the street, she had been caught by several rough-looking customers, who rushed out of Trine's house, seized the girl, and made off with her in a motor-car bearing a New Jersey license number. I am sending men to watch the Jersey ferries. Call me up in an hour—"

Without a word of response, and without a word of apology to the Reverend Mr. Wright, Alan dropped the receiver, snatched up his hat, and fled that house like a man demented.

Rose, escaping from Trine's house, overpowered and made the captive of Trine's lowest creatures—gunmen possibly, of the stamp of that animal whom Trine had charged with the assassination of Alan the night before!

There was neither a motor-car in sight for him to charter nor any time to waste in seeking one. Alan could only hope to find one on his way back toward the ferry. It must have been upwards of an hour before he came into a street which he recognized, by its dinginess and squalor, as that in which he had thrown Marrophat from the running-board of the taxicab.

And then, as he paused, breathless and footsore, to cast about him for the way to the ferry, a touring car turned a corner at topspeed and slowed to a stop before that selfsame tenement of the unsavory aspect to whose sidewalk he had seen Marrophat assisted by the loaders of the quarter.

And this touring car was occupied by some half-a-dozen ruffians in whose hands a young girl writhed and struggled when, immediately on the stop, they jumped out and wrestled her out with brutal inconsideration.

Like a shot Alan had crossed the street—but only to bring up nose to the panels of the tenement door, and to find himself seized and thrown roughly aside by a burly denizen when he grasped the knob and made as if to follow in.

"Keep back, young fellow!" his assailant warned him viciously. "Keep outa this, now, if you don't want to get into trouble!"

To the speaker's side another ranged, eyeing Alan with a formidable scowl. At discretion he stepped back and turned as if persuaded to mind his own business, then swung on his heel, caught the two in the very act of opening the door, and threw himself between them.

An elbow planted heavily in the pit of the stomach of one disposed of him for the time being. A blow from the shoulder sent the other reeling to the gutter. And Alan was in the tenement's lowermost hall—a foul and evil-smelling place, dark as a pit the instant the door was closed, its murk relieved only by the flame of a kerosene lamp smoking in a bracket near the foot of the stairs.

"Do you hear much of it on the road?"

"Why," said the bishop, "nearly everybody I bump into swears dreadfully!"

Bellefontaine, Ohio.—"My blood was very poor and I was in a weak, nervous, run-down condition. I tried different medicines without benefit and one day my druggist told me about Vinol. In all I took four bottles and certainly got the results I was looking for. It built me up in every way, blood, strength and nerves, and I tell my friends it is the best medicine on earth. Many of them have used it and found it so."—Mrs. Earl Brunson, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

As long as the blood is impoverished, thin and poor you will be weak, pale and tired all the time.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, supplies iron to the blood, purifies and enriches it, while the cod liver elements contained in Vinol create strength, and rebuilds wasting tissues.

Vinol is not a secret nostrum, simply the medicinal elements of the cod's livers, with the useless nauseating oil eliminated, and tonic iron added. Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not make you stronger, feel younger and give you an added interest in life.—Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

ULYSSES G. WAITE TELLS OF THE WEST

FORMER ROCK COUNTY FARMER
DESCRIBES WOLRD'S FAIR AND ACTIVE VOLCANO.

LIVES IN CALIFORNIA

Imperial Domain and Fight to Banish Boze is Explained.—Liquor Fight is On in State.

Ulysses G. Waite, a former resident of Afton, and known throughout Rock county, writes an interesting letter from Riverside, Calif., his home. Mr. Waite left Rock county some five years ago for the west, having up to that time, been a successful farmer in and about Afton. He was also formerly a member of the editorial staff of this paper. Following is the letter:

Riverside, Calif., Oct. 21, 1914.
California seems bound to keep in the limelight. Students of history will recall that she made a most auspicious beginning in this regard, away back in '49, when Jim Marsaul, discovered gold, and since then she has pulled off just enough thrills to keep all eyes turned this way. A week ago the anti-land law agitation stirred up diplomats and dreamers all the way from Yorktown to Yokohama, and visions of Togo and his honorships floated before the frightened fancy of many fearful folks. Then not so many moons ago, a supposedly defunct volcano, away up to the north, suddenly sprang into life and now it has a erupted with more or less vehemence during the past summer, greatly to the edification of sundry tourists and the consternation of wondering inhabitants. And we are getting ready to see a double-barreled stunt next year, which will claim attention, even if the European war does continue, as congress does stay in session all summer.

Two world's fairs in one state in one year! Did you ever hear of the like before? It has generally been supposed that the position of international proportions was about the limit for any one country, in any one year, and yet the imperial commonwealth of California will have two shows within her borders next year, which are destined to take rank architecturally and artistically with those which have gone before. That these coming exhibitions are by no means second rate affairs and he inferred when it is learned that 625 acres are devoted to the fair at San Francisco, and that the site of the San Diego fair embraces 400 acres.

The mere fact that these two big shows are to be run simultaneously, within the confines of the same state, does not imply conflict or rivalry between the two cities, or the two fairs, on account of proximity. Readers of the Gazette will better appreciate this when they realize that having one exposition located at San Diego and the other at San Francisco, brings them in the same relative position, with regard to distance, that it would to place one in Janesville and the other in Philadelphia. It is a trifle over 400 miles by rail between the two world's fair cities and perhaps a little more by water.

Yes, dear reader, California is truly a state of magnificent distances. When word reached us here in Riverside, that Mount Lassen was really in eruption, we felt no immediate peril, for it was as though word should reach the Bowyer City that some erratic peak in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia had assumed all the prerogatives of an active volcano. Why we have a state here that is 725 miles long, with something like 1,200 miles of sea coast. Within its ample borders all of the New England states, with New York, New Jersey, Delaware, and D.C. could very nicely be squeezed away, with 1,672 square miles to spare. Our neighboring country of Oregon is so big that three times it would not hold the great state of Wisconsin, with enough square miles left over to just about cover up the seven state of Connecticut. Flon California ever into the Mississippi valley and it would reach from Frankfort to Vicksburg.

And, finally, as if not content with holding the record longitudes, this unique state boasts of being within its borders the highest elevation and the lowest depression of any state in the Union. Mount Whitney of the high Sierr Nevada range, 14,501 feet above sea level, is the highest peak in the United States, while near at hand, in the same county, in fact, lies famous Death Valley, 422 feet below sea level, a trackless waste, from the awful grip of whose shifting sands and waterless reaches, more than one luckless and despairing prospector has never returned.

We are now in the last days of a strenuous campaign to determine whether or not John Barleycorn shall be driven from the state. If this end of the state could render the verdict, John would certainly have to go, for "Vote California Dry" is the popular slogan down here. But as I have already shown, this is a great state. Our interests are varied, our productions diversified. The "west" point with alarm to the great economic and which would come to the state, if the wine grape industry should be ruined and the use of California barley and California hops for brewing purposes, should be paralyzed. And further, more, the state with fear and trembling to the terrible effect it would have on the financial success of our two big world's fairs, were California to go dry.

These arguments will influence some voters. But those who look above and beyond mere dollars and cents, as represented by vineyards, and hop yards, and barley fields, and broken hearts, and ruined characters, and wrecked fortunes, and blighted careers, and lost souls, as the inevitable result of John Barleycorn's stay in California, will certainly work and vote for his complete overthrow next month.

At the outset the anti-liquor forces held different opinions regarding the advisability of launching a dry campaign this year, but the majority said "go to it" and the fight was on. The campaign has certainly gained in adherents, in enthusiasm and in interest, and with the recent great victories in West Virginia and Virginia as a splendid inspiration, it need not be surprising if the aroused men and women of this great Golden State shall arise in their might, and drive Old John Barleycorn forever from its borders.

—ULYSSES G. WAITE.

"There's a Reason"

why more and more coffee
drinkers quit coffee and use--

POSTUM

Once convinced that coffee-drinking is actually harmful to health, few parents would give coffee to their children, or drink it themselves.

What proof more convincing than the unnatural aches and pains that many coffee-drinkers suffer?

What proof more conclusive than the scores of expert medical and scientific opinions against coffee?

Brain, Stomach, Heart, Liver and Kidneys are the first organs to be affected. Sometimes it shows in headache; often in nervousness, indigestion or heart disturbance; frequently in biliousness or disturbed vision.

If you are in doubt, try this test—

Stop coffee ten days and use POSTUM

This pure food-drink made of prime wheat and a small per cent of molasses, has a rich, Java-like flavour and is absolutely pure and free from the coffee-drug, caffeine, or any other harmful ingredient.

Postum comes in two forms:

REGULAR POSTUM—must be boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

INSTANT POSTUM—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage INSTANTLY. 30c and 50c tins.

Grocers everywhere sell both kinds, and the cost per cup is about the same.

THE GRAY HOUR

By WALTER DUNCAN.

(Copyright.)

He was to be shot at sunrise. Through the long night he had tossed restlessly. Bitter thoughts had occupied him.

Leaning against the bare stone that walled him in his prison, the condemned insurrecto stood looking with longing eyes through the narrow, iron-barred window at the hills in the distance. They loomed up bare and cheerless in the first gray hour of dawn.

Another hour, and the sleepy sentry would come and lead him outside to the blank wall that rose up from the parade ground.

There he would stand and a file of rurales would take their places to feed in front of him. And all would be over.

The good priest would attend to the spiritual things—so he had been taught to believe—and he had no fear of death.

Strangely, the insurrecto thought, a great, burning desire now possessed him to be fair to the little senorita who loved him.

The little senorita lived not far beyond the eastern hills, over which the first rays of the sun would come stealing presently.

Why had not the great longing come to him until he faced the end of things? He had wronged her, but he knew that she would be watching for the sunrise.

The senorita's troubled face, which he had kissed when he rode away for the last time, had haunted him through the night's unbroken silence.

He rolled a cigarette and blew the smoke through the narrow, iron-barred lookout, but the little senorita's troubled face would not leave him.

The breaking day was growing brighter—not long now until the sunrise. He could see the jagged rocks and the sparse growth on the hillside that had appeared so barren a while ago.

Then it occurred to Pedro that perhaps it might not be too late. Perhaps, dying, he might make good the fair promises in which she had believed, and which would give to her and to her unborn child his name. It would be little enough to leave as a legacy.

It was only just. Yes, he would do that in the night. The insurrecto resolved that when the good priest came to mend the spiritual things, he would make his confession and enlist the priest's good offices to secure the consent of the commandant of the rurales to the execution until couriers had been dispatched over the hills to the pale, troubled senorita.

He would bring her to become his widow. Yet this would help her to live and suffer. He must be true to a story that lingered. Surely, thought Pedro, the commandant would agree.

Resolved on his course, the insurrecto found himself anxiously watching for the coming of the good priest.

Presently he saw him approaching, riding astride his little pony down the winding highway from the village beyond the eastern hills where the little senorita lived.

Why his haste? Surely it was not with relish that the good priest came on such a mission. Still he hurried. As he drew nearer he appeared to be excited. Certainly he was not in a pious mood.

The condemned insurrecto, looking out through the narrow opening in the prison wall, watched without understanding the great joy he saw in the smiling face of the priest.

When the prison door swung open for the priest to enter Pedro understood.

"My son," he heard, "I bring you good tidings. There are to be no more executions! You are free, my son!"

The insurrecto stared blankly, incomprehendingly, silently, for a moment.

The first ray of the morning sun piercing the gray dawn and stealing through the lookout at which he had been standing called him to himself.

He saw his prison door swung ajar, but he made no motion toward the freedom, the coveted life it offered.

He remembered that there was something he had resolved to say to the good priest. It faltered on his lips.

Receiving the priest's blessing, the insurrecto walked out into the sunshine and breathed again the fresh open air of the hills. It was exhilarating after his confinement in the musty, ill-smelling prison.

It was life! He had not known before how precious life was.

A roadway led from the prison. Pedro walked along it to a point half a league away. Here it forked.

One highway led over the eastern hills to the village where lived the little senorita watching the rising of the sun.

The other led to unknown places beyond the western mountains, where there might be still more fighting; where there were many dark-eyed senoritas.

And he was free.

At the fork Pedro stopped to roll a cigarette and to choose.

Then he took the western trail.

National Geographic Society War Primer,

POPERINGHE or POPERINGEN—Vast hop-fields surround this town of West Flanders in Belgium, nineteen miles southwest of Dunkirk, seven miles west of Ypres and two and a half miles from the French frontier. One of the oldest of Belgian towns, having held charter since 1147, it was sacked and burned by French troops in 1382 and by the English in 1436. Fires practically devastated the place in 1513 and in 1563. The place reached a population of 10,000 in 1840 and at present only numbers slightly more than 1,000. There is considerable manufacture of coarse woollens, thread, leather, soap, tobacco, chocolate, pottery, crockery, pipes, salt and vinegar, and the town is known for its cotton weaving, dyeing and bleaching. The cultivation of hops, however, is the chief industry of the neighborhood and this product is the principal article of commerce. The town is on a small branch of the Yser river.

WARNETON—One of several Belgian villages in West Flanders whose inhabitants suddenly dropped the Flemish language at the beginning of the 18th century and began speaking French. It is estimated that at this time 12,000 people changed their language, among them being the residents of the neighboring towns of Ploegstraet, Comines and Houten. Warneton is a mile from the French border, nine miles northwest of Lille and eight miles east of Ypres. Half a century ago it had 6,000 inhabitants; today there are but few more than 4,000. The people manufacture linen and lace and there are extensive distilleries and tanneries.

VEURNE—One of the westernmost towns of West Flanders, Belgium, also known as Furnes, with a population of about 6,000, but hardly more than a village in its activities. It is old-fashioned and uninteresting, except for a spectacular pageant, depicting the twelve principal events in the life of Christ, held annually since 1650. The country around is noted for its fertility and supports large herds of cattle and horses. The inhabitants trade in corn, stock, hops and dairy products. The town is six miles west of south of Nieupoort, and is three miles from the coast.

MIDDELKERKE—A town of about 1,000 inhabitants in West Flanders, Belgium, five miles southwest of Ostend and one mile from the sea coast. Here is the starting point of a submarine cable to the English coast, a watchman's hut on a sand hill being the only marker of the spot. Nearby is an institution for invalid children.

BECELARE—A small town in West Flanders, Belgium, six miles east of Ypres, five miles from the French border and fifteen miles north of Lille. The town is in a fertile district given over to the raising of hops, hemp, and some grain. Extensive woollen factories are located in the place. Its present population slightly exceeding 3,000 is but about 1,000 more than it possessed seventy-five years ago.

VLADSLU—A small town in West Flanders, four miles northeast of Dixmude and twelve miles south of Ostend. It has a population of approximately 3,000. Its inhabitants are engaged in the manufacture of oil.

There is but one genuine ROUND OAK stove. For over forty years the Round Oak Folks have concentrated their efforts in the production of this heater, which is today, in principle, scientifically correct. The prestige of this stove has stimulated over one hundred other manufacturers to imitate it in appearance and name, but as every imitation is always inferior to the original, so has it been with the imitations of this strong, simple, durable heater, which has always "delivered the goods."

Burns all fuel successfully and economically. Holds the fire forty-eight hours, and gives a lifetime of service. So well recognized is the prestige and value of this stove, that after fifteen or twenty years of service, it brings more, secondhand, than cheap imitations do on the dealer's floor.

Insist on securing the original. We recommend and sell it at sale prices now.

FORMER LA FOLLETTE MAN BOOSTS PHILIPP

SUPERIOR MAN IN STATEMENT
URGES REPUBLICAN CANDI-DATE'S CAUSE.

CALLS BLAINE TRAITOR

Declares Karel Men Are Back of Independent Candidate's Campaign to Effect a Split.

John S. Roeseleer of Superior, a former La Follette man, in a statement today declared his support of Philip, as against Blaine, in the present campaign for governor. He heads his statement, "Shall Good Republicans Support Philip or Blaine in the Coming Election?" and analyzes the situation as follows:

"The men in former years generally supported the La Follette candidates. In the present situation I have fully investigated every phase of the question and am convinced that there can be no gain to either the republicans or the general welfare by electing Mr. Blaine. He is a traitor to the republic and to the country notwithstanding."

The only ones that can possibly profit by such splitting up of republican votes are the democratic party. They can afford to pay Blaine's campaign expenses to keep him in the field. If the curtain were lifted, the world undoubtedly would know that the men behind Blaine's candidacy were Karel men when Blaine's candidacy was ushered into the political arena.

By lending himself to such a game, even if he does so blindly and in ignorance, Blaine is doing a great deal of harm. He is not only a traitor to the republic but to the general welfare.

To ward off the dire consequences of the split it is absolutely necessary for republicans to present a united front in this campaign.

I know Philip personally as one of the brainiest men we have in the state. He has had a wide experience in managing men and large enterprises and has proven his competency and integrity in many ways. A vote for him is no jump in the dark. It is a vote for a man of large calibre and no one need fear that he will demolish the real substantial good achieved by La Follette and his co-workers. It is a vote for a man whose whole life work has been constructive, not destructive, except in the removal of obstructions, weeds, leeches and parasites.

La Follette has done much good, but all he has sought for and supported is not good. He is no more inflexible than either Roosevelt or Philip. He has no corner on goodness.

Give your vote to Philip and rest assured that he will give us the ablest, most economical and cleanest business administration that the state has ever seen. This is the conviction of all who really know the man and know what they are talking about.

Philip won out in the primary and came to his nomination honestly. Had Blaine won out in the primary and Philip come in as an independent candidate, my conscience would not have allowed me to support Philip under such conditions, no matter how highly I respected his competency and integrity. I favor justice and fair play towards Philip as well as towards others, even if in the past he has not been a warm supporter of La Follette measures. I am opposed to political trickery, even if sanctioned or backed by such high authorities as La Follette and Roosevelt.

Some say they cannot support Philip because La Follette and Blaine have painted him as a dangerous reactionary. Do these good people not know that La Follette upon the stump, in his autobiography and in his paper has scored Roosevelt exactly in like manner. And yet in this Blaine campaign Roosevelt, the alleged reactionary, and La Follette, the ultra-reactionary, are pulling on the same tug.

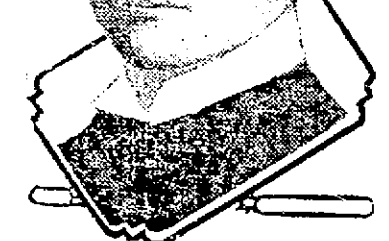

Has La Follette, too, fallen into the Roosevelt "tar barrel" or has Roosevelt fallen into the La Follette "tar barrel"? How does this unholy alliance strike you, my fellow citizens, if La Follette's previous portrayal of Roosevelt is true to life. O consistency, thou art a Jew!

Respectfully,
JOHN S. ROESELEER.

What is a Coolie?

"Coolie" is a term used to designate an Asiatic laborer not belonging to the skilled or artisan class. It does not mean "nigger." The word is almost exclusively used to designate those natives of India and China (and sometimes Japan) who leave their native country under contract of service to work as laborers elsewhere.

MOST POPULAR MAN IN GERMAN EMPIRE

Lieut. Otto Weddigen.

The most popular man in all Germany, with the possible exception of General von Hindenburg, is Senior Lieutenant Otto Weddigen, commander of the German submarine U-9, which sank the four British cruisers, Cressy, Aboukir, Hogue and Hawke.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has conferred on him the Knight's Cross of Leopold Order. The Naval League of German women sent him and his crew their congratulations and a gift of $250 for the men, while Emil Sauer, a Berlin mine owner, has donated $1,500 toward rewarding the crew for its work. The association known as the Eldest of Merchants sent its congratulations to Admiral von Tirpitz in recognition of the gallant deed of Lieutenant Weddigen and his crew.

MEN'S BELONGINGS

By VERN POEHLMAN.

"Why is it," demanded pretty Mrs. Penton of a company of young matrons who had assembled at her house for afternoon tea, "that a man's belongings are often more trying, more irritating to one's nerves than even the man himself?"

"What kind of belongings do you mean?" inquired young Mrs. Troy with a smile that seemed to say that she knew what Mrs. Penton was going to say.

"Oh, I mean what in official terms is called their 'personal effects,' their clothes."

"Yes, clothes are about all the personal belongings men are allowed to have," laughed a small matron. "But even clothes are trying at times. Can't you understand the feelings of the woman who wanted a divorce just because she couldn't stand it to see a man's clothes hanging in her closet?"

"In her closet!" echoed Mrs. Troy. "Well, if she could get her husband to hang his clothes in any closet, I think she ought to have been satisfied. What irritates me is to see my husband's clothes hanging over all the chairs."

"Isn't it strange," mused Mrs. Penton, "that one can grow quite romantic over a woman's empty glove, her opera coat, or her dancing slippers, but did anybody ever grow poetic over a man's glove or his tuxedo or his pumps?"

"Do you know," spoke up the small matron, "that one of the most trying experiences of my life as a housekeeper is putting away my husband's laundry?"

"Well, really," said Mrs. Troy, "if you never have anything to do more trying than that I think you are not in danger of an immediate breakdown."

"But there's something so hard and uncompromising about a laundered shirt. It seems to be the very symbol of a man's commercial spirit. I never take the pins out of a shirt of my husband's, but I feel like musing it all up and making it amenable to reason."

"The only opportunity that a man has to betray his individuality in the matter of clothes is in his choice of ties," declared Mrs. Penton, "and so what he wears! They say a woman's history might be written from an inspection of the clothes in her closet, and I think a man's biography might, with equal truth, be gathered from the drawer in which he keeps his ties."

"I endure his ties and his unoccupied shirts," declared a young and baby faced matron. "But his cigars and all his smoking apparatus drive me to the brink. Not that I particularly object to a nice, neat row of cigars, or even a freshly lighted one, but think of the horrid, smelly ashes that incubate the carapace! Think of the smoke that lingers forever in the curtains, and the vile smelling cigar stub that is always present, and that is so distressing to the nerves of the nice and the neat."

"Well, really," said Mrs. Penton, "it is a pity that there is not some one here to speak for the other side. Don't you suppose that our belongings, our gewgaws and baubles sometimes annoy our husbands? Surely, our infinite variety of possessions, our hairpins and hatpins, our veils and laces, our beads and buckles must have their effect upon nervous men."

"But we have nothing that corresponds to the bad smelling cigar stub," protested the baby faced matron.

"We have our perfumes and our sachets," declared Mrs. Penton, "and you know that to some men the odor of perfume is intolerable. As for sachet powder, I had to give that up early in my married life, because it made Mr. Penton ill, and now I dislike it as much as he does."

"He ought to have married the woman who couldn't endure the sight of a man's clothes in her closet," laughed Mrs. Troy. "What a sweet time they would have had together! But isn't it ridiculous to make such a fuss over little things, when life is so full of big issues?"

"Well, it's a truth as old as the hills," sighed the small matron, "that it's the little things that cause all the trouble."—Chicago Daily News.

Getting It Spread Wrong.

"I have read every book on agriculture that I can find," said the amateur farmer, "and still I don't manage to get crops." "There's the trouble," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "You're putting all the cultivation on yourself instead of on the land."

CLASSIFIED WANT ADS

A man arrived in this city from Tacoma a few weeks back. He was sent by his firm to make this section of the country his headquarters for the coming year. Having a wife and family the very first thing for him to do was to locate a house, or furnished rooms. The latter was what he went in quest of. He purchased a paper, returned to his hotel and by phone got in communication with as many of the "For Rent," ads as he could. The ad that attracted his attention most was the place he eventually took. It told all about the rooms that were for rent; told it in a way that left little more to be said.

The man in question called to see the place, and, while he frankly said he thought the rent a bit steep, he took the place. Took it for a year.

"I liked your little ad in your paper," he said as the transaction was brought to a close, "and I hoped I might be able to get the rooms."

If that woman had sought to economize on her ad she would not have had a tenant who rented for a year, and paid the first three months in advance as a proof of his sincerity. This is not to suggest that you put a plaster on your home to obtain money enough to take a flier in the advertising world. My! no. Only, do not expect that a one line ad is going to be miraculous in its power to obtain results. Learn how to advertise.

MRS. MARY E. KIRK INTERRED IN WEST

Former Resident of Janesville for Half a Century Buried at New-castle, California.

Word had been received in the city of the death of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Auld Kirk at Newcastle, Calif. Mary Elizabeth Auld was born in County Antrim, Ireland, on Dec. 14, 1828. At the age of two years she came with her parents to this country, settling first in Pennsylvania, and later in Ohio, near Portsmouth. Here she spent her girlhood days, and in 1849 she was married to Thomas Kirk, they starting at once on the journey for Wisconsin overland by wagon. Coming to Janesville they located on South River street, where Mr. Kirk became the proprietor of extensive cooperage works. To Mr. and Mrs. Kirk were born eleven children, five of whom died in childhood and youth. The remaining six, who are living, are: Mrs. Loomis, Mrs. Kirk, Mrs. Placer, Mrs. John and Sarah Kirk, Mrs. L. J. Kinney, Mrs. Frank Tupper, Mrs. George H. Williamson and Mrs. W. E. Neithome. Besides these, Mrs. Kirk leaves to mourn her loss, two sisters, Mrs. Sarah J. Coe of Portsmouth, Ohio, and Mrs. Nancy Auld of Santa Monica, Cal.; also three grand-children, Lindsley Kirk, Neithome, Mary Louise Neithome, and George Kirk Williamson, all of California.

Mrs. Kirk and her husband were identified with the First Presbyterian church of Janesville almost from its organization, and she retained her membership here up to the time of her death.

After her long residence in Janesville, of fifty-five years, she went to California in 1904, and had since resided near Loomis, where she passed away very suddenly, Oct. 21, 1914, after an illness of only two days. She was laid to rest in the cemetery at Newcastle, being carried to her last resting place by her son and her sons-in-law. And as she dearly loved flowers, life, so in death was she surrounded by the many beautiful offerings which testified to the love and esteem in which she was held by her friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Kirk was a woman who neared herself to all with whom she came in contact, by her unaffected goodness, and her many kindly, helpful deeds and words. She leaves behind her to her children and friends, the memory of a life spent in unselfish service for others. Among the comforting thoughts brought out by her pastor at the service was this: "Let us not wait for somebody to tell you that he saw an ad in the Gazette which he thought might interest you."

SIR WILLIAM SOULSOY ELECTED FOR 40TH TIME SECRETARY TO MAYOR.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) London, Oct. 28.—Lord Mayors of London come and go year by year, but Sir William Soulsby, who has just been appointed for the fortieth time Lord Mayor's private secretary, seems to go on for ever. He has a unique record. Re-appointed each year by successive Chief Magistrates, he knows more about the quaint and ancient ceremonial of the City and the complicated machinery of London's civic hospitality than any other man. He has had to superintend the organization of many huge Mansion House banquets and all the details involved in the running of the high office of his many chiefs.

The only European rulers who have not paid a visit to the City in Sir William's time are the Emperor of Austria and the young Queen of Holland. The Kaiser has been twice and more than one visit was paid by the late King of Greece. Three French Presidents and two for Presidents of the United States, General Grant and Col. Roosevelt, have also been guests of the City, as well as many American Ministers and Ambassadors.

Retiree as to his own career, Sir William can sometimes, though rarely, be induced to talk about his experiences of men and affairs. For instance, he narrates an amusing incident which occurred when in 1871 he was one of the secretaries of the Mansion House committee of relief of sufferers in the Franco-Prussian War. One afternoon, he says, a well-dressed man called at the Mansion and asked for an interview with the Lord Mayor. He presented an elaborately engraved card bearing the name, Le Marquis de Morancy, Mair de Chateaudun. Speaking English perfectly, he described in vivid terms the horrors of war in his own town and was so overcome by the pitifulness of his story that he wept as he told it. So touched was the Lord Mayor that he handed his visitor £2,500 for the relief of the distressed people of Chateaudun and invited the Marquis to a Mansion House banquet to be held the same evening, an invitation the Marquis gratefully accepted. At the dinner the Marquis, probably aided by the hospitable flow of wine, suddenly rose and in a long, eloquent and moving speech thanked the Lord Mayor for his generosity and touchingly told the story of the sufferings of the people of Chateaudun. The speech was reported at length in the morning papers and the Lord Mayor then found that he had given the £2,500 to one of the cleverest swindlers in Europe.

SUFFRAGISTS WAGE BATTLE FOR BALLOT IN SEVEN STATES; SEE VICTORY IN AT LEAST MONTANA, NEVADA AND DAKOTAS

As Nov. 3 draws near interest grows keener in the battle being waged by suffragists for the ballot in Montana, Nevada, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Missouri and Ohio. The suffragists claim the first four states, and say they have a fighting chance in the other three. Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Chicago is their leading campaigner.

There is also much interest in the energetic campaign being waged by the Congressional Union to divert the votes of the women of the equal suffrage states from the Democratic candidates for congress in the interest of the proposed federal amendment. Among the suffragists campaigning in these states are Inez Haynes Gilmore, Jessie Hardy Stubbs, Miss Charlotte Whitney and Mrs. Mary M. Keith.
